AMU to Add Olympic Channel, Will Lose Outdoor Channel

AMU Cable TV will make changes to its Digital Basic and HD Tiers in late September and early October.

On September 27, 2017, the Outdoor Channel will cease distributing its signal via the transport system that AMU uses to put many cable TV networks on its Digital Basic and HD tiers. The Outdoor Channel will instead use direct feeds to transmit its programming to cable companies. Due to bandwidth constraints with AMU's cable TV infrastructure, AMU will not be able to take the direct feeds from the Outdoor Channel. The Outdoor Channel will be removed from AMU's Digital Basic and HD tiers sometime during the morning of September 27th. Currently, the Outdoor Channel is located on channel 212 in AMU's Digital Basic tier and channel 320 in the HD tier.

On Tuesday, October 3rd, AMU will add the Olympic Channel SD & HD to the cable TV lineup. The Olympic Channel is owned by NBC Universal. The Olympic Channel will provide live sports coverage and original content on Team USA athletes. Olympic Channel SD will be located on channel 212 in Digital Basic, and Olympic Channel HD will be located on Channel 320.

While we're disappointed that the Outdoor Channel will no longer provide a feed that allows AMU to put its programming on the Digital Basic and HD tiers, the Olympic Channel will be a good fit alongside the other sport networks located in Digital Basic and the HD Tier.
